NEW COLLEGE COMMUNITIES

STAFF CODE OF CONDUCT

1. College Mission

It is the mission of the New College Communities to cultivate outstanding university campus communities of academic excellence and pastoral care, shaped by Christian faith and values, where every student can flourish.

2. Core Activities (Constitution Schedule 1)

The College exists to provide within UNSW a witness to the Christian gospel of reconciliation with God through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ and to the centrality of the person of Jesus Christ in human life and experience.

It does this from within a collegiate life in the University by:

- The provision of accommodation, pastoral care and academic support and development
- The encouragement of and provision for both personal growth in and corporate expression of the Christian faith
- The development of Christian scholarship and academic excellence

The College seeks to serve not only its own resident members but others who may benefit from association with the College without compromising its primary focus towards UNSW.

While being publicly and actively Christian, the College imposes no test of religious belief or practice for its resident members. To facilitate its aims and goals it retains the right to apply such tests to those it employs and appoints as its representatives.

3. Purpose

This code outlines the College’s expectations of its staff and affiliates with respect to their professional and personal conduct with the College community, UNSW and the wider public so that the College may freely continue to uphold its mission and core activities as it has since 1969.
4. Application

This code applies to all College employees, including resident advisers and senior residents, academic tutors.

5. The Code

All workers listed above are required to:

6. Notification of Wrongdoing

Any person, whether they are a member of the College community or not, who on reasonable grounds believe that College staff and its affiliates may be guilty of wrongdoing needs to report to the employee’s supervisor or if it be the Master, to the College board.

Such reports could include:

- Harassment, discrimination, bullying, intimidation, violence or vilification
- Derogative or inflammatory language
- Unsafe working conditions
- Suspected corrupt, criminal, unethical conduct, or waste of college money
- Actual, potential or perceived conflict of interests
- Any allegations of child mistreatment and abuse
• Personal use of College resources which interferes with College work
• Unauthorised disclosure of confidential information
• Breach of this Code or other College policies

College staff who wish to disclose any sensitive matter may raise their concerns with senior staff in accordance with the Whistleblower Policy.

Any report found to be untrue or made with malicious, frivolous or mischievous intent will be regarded as a breach of this Code of Conduct.

7. Breaching the Code

Any breach of this code may result in disciplinary action in conjunction with other relevant policies and procedures, including counselling, warnings and in serious cases, termination of employment or contract.

8. Variation

The College reserves the right to vary, replace or terminate this Code of Conduct.
